THIRD EDITION, NOV. 8—3 A. M.

NEW-YORK REDEEMED.

Great Uprising of the People for Reform.

A Glorious Republican Victory Secured.

The State Ticket Elected by 12,000 Majority.

The Legislature Two-Thirds Republican.

All of the New-York Reform County Ticket Elected.

Norton, Genet, Bradley and Woltman Defeated.

Tammany's Hordes Broken Up Everywhere.

There has been a great victory for the people. All the Ring thieves and tools except TWEED are gone. GARDNER, PORTER, WOLTMAN, HILBERT, IRVING, CAULDWELL, TOM FIELDS are all defeated. Never was such majorities against Tammany recorded before. TWEED'S majority is largely reduced. The entire County ticket is elected. The Republican State ticket is elected by 10,000 or 15,000 majority. Everywhere the supremacy of Tammany are overthrown. SMITH'S majority is overwhelming. It is the greatest triumph we have ever been called upon to record in local history.

NEW-YORK.

Glorious Republican Victory All Over the State—Hoffman for the Superintendency Ticket 20,000—The Senate and Assembly Also Republican.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

UTICA, N. Y., Nov. 7.—In the Nineteenth Senatorial District, Emery has 1,200 majority.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 7.—The town of Salina gives a Republican majority of 225 for the State ticket. Republican gain, 125 over last year. Onondaga, 5th Republican majority. Assembly, 3rd majority. One District of Lansing and one district of Ulysses show a Republican gain.

PENFIELD, N. Y., Nov. 7.—In Greenstown, Rockland County, election district, No. 1, Chapin has a majority for Superintendent of State Prisons, 146; Tompkins, for Senator, 146; Congdon, for Assembly, 146.

HAMMONDSPORT, Nov. 7.—Rhinebeck gives Scribner 100 majority—a gain of 122. Benton has 251 majority. The County gives an overwhelming majority for the State ticket. Palmer, Republican, is elected to the Senate and Eastman, Republican, to the Assembly.

PULASKI, N. Y., Nov. 7.—The election passed off very quietly; only a two-thirds vote polled. The following are the majorities: Scribner, 309; Stapleton, 281; Eaton, 280; Barlow, 283; Taylor, 283; Barkly, 245; Kirkpatrick, 290. Returns for Senator and Assemblyman still incomplete. No doubt of re-election of Alvord, Barns and Scriver. Wood will have over 400 majority for Senate. Scribner's vote thought very good, as the Germans went solid for Willcox. Great excitement is manifested over cheering news from other parts of the State.

CANDENSPORT, N. Y., Nov. 7.—In nine towns of St. Lawrence County Northern has 1,200 majority. The county will give about 6,000 majority for the whole Republican ticket. D. A. Moon is the First, D. S. Lynde is the Second, P. W. Rose is the Third, all Republicans; one elected to the Assembly, Wells S. Dickinson, Republican, is elected Senator in the Seventh District.

BUFFALO, Nov. 7.—Erie County about 1,800 majority for Republican State ticket. L. L. Lewis re-elected Senator by 1,800. Republican Assemblymen elected in Second, Third and Fourth Districts, First District Democratic. Fifth in doubt. City of Buffalo gives one, perhaps two, Republican Judges of Superior Court, the three Judges of which have been Democratic since the organization of the Court seventy years ago—a clean sweep.

ALBANY, Nov. 7.—The vote for Senator is so close that it is impossible to ascertain who is elected, but the indications are that NOAH DAVIS (Rep.) is elected by a small majority. Of the Assembly districts, the Second and Third are conceded to the Republicans; the First doubtful, and the Fourth Democratic. It may be that the Second is also. The Democratic Party is greatly disorganized. The result is owing to the Tammany disclosures. In Greenbush, on the opposite side of the river, the Democratic ticket is defeated by a majority of 200, a gain of fully one for the Republican ticket.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Chemung County gives about 200 Democratic majority, electing the entire Democratic County ticket. Republican gains over last year, nearly 300. HARDENBERGH (Rep.) for Senator in Twenty-seventh District, is probably elected, though the vote is close. Steuben County gives nine hundred majority, Chemung nine hundred and fifty. For Scribner, Schuyler elects CLOVELAND in Fifth Yates district, is beaten. Yates County giving large majority against him. Scribner is ahead of the head of the State ticket in this county, the Labor Reformers having moved against him.

OSWEGO, Nov. 7.—Oswego County (eastern assembly district) gives Scribner 2,151 majority—a gain of [illegible] We have again our unbroken Assembly delegation. Green's (Rep.) majority over Rowe in the Second District is 11; Fortz, in the First District, 112; Segee, in the Third District, 1,000 and upward.

BUFFALO, Nov. 8.—Erie County about 1,800 majority for Republican State ticket. L. L. Lewis re-elected Senator by 1,800. Republican Assemblymen elected in Second, Third and Fourth Districts, First District Democratic. Fifth in doubt. City of Buffalo elects one, perhaps two, Republican Judges of Superior Court, the three Judges of which have been Democratic since the organization of the Court seventy years ago—a clean sweep.

UTICA, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Utica City gives Scribner 186 majority. Oneida County gives 1,400 Republican majority. First, Second and Fourth Districts went Republican; Third District Democratic.

ALBANY, Nov. 7.—Adams is doubtless elected Senator; Judson, (Rep.) County Clerk, and Spriggs and Smith, and Babcock to the Assembly; possibly Potter.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 7.—The Republican Senators and Assemblymen in the First, Second and Third Districts are elected; also the whole Republican County ticket.

ASHBURN, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Albany County gives Democratic State ticket about 1,500 majority. ISAAC SWEET, Democrat, for Senator, is in believed, is defeated. The Democrats elect one member of the Assembly. It is believed that the Republicans have elected Junior County Clerk; County District-Attorney, and Caucus, Surrogate.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 7.—The Republicans gain one member of Assembly in this County in the First District, but have failed to redeem the District on Senator Jarvis, Lord being re-elected by a largely increased majority. Davenport's district is close, but he is probably elected. He loses Yates by 41, but it is thought that Ontario will save him. The Republicans gain a member of Assembly in Seneca, another in Steuben, and another in Cayuga, by decisive majorities. They lose their County Judge in Livingston County by 24 majority. Allegheny gives Scribner 2,700 majority; Cayuga, 2,600; Genesee, 1,200; Orleans, 2,000; Schuyler, 2,000; Monroe, 800. The gains are large all around us, but Monroe is unfortunately behind its usual form. Haines runs heavily ahead of his ticket here. Chatfield is elected Senator by 2,000.

The Returns on State Ticket Gratifying Exhibitions.

We give the following majorities by towns and districts throughout the State, as far as received, with corresponding gains, as shown by comparisons with the election of 1869.

THE CITY VOTE.

Returns of the Election by Ward Districts—Two Years for Secretary of State, Register and Supreme Court.

The following tables show the latest returns for Secretary of State, Register, and Judge of the Supreme Court by districts of wards. No comparisons of this year's vote with that of 1869 by districts is attempted, as the boundaries have all been changed by Mayor HALL. Comparisons by wards are made, however, in other tables.

The New-York Times.

DAILY, WEEKLY AND SEMI-WEEKLY.

This journal is now thoroughly identified with the greatest political necessity of the hour—incorporating warfare against all forms of corruption, whether in national or local government. For years past the TIMES has been exposing the demoralizing schemes of self-interested politicians, and its recent warfare upon the Tammany Democrats has been received with universal approval. It has adhered to the pledge given in its original prospectus, more than twenty years ago, that the public should in truth be represented, and their interests faithfully guarded through its columns. Its record has been pure and honorable, and the highest aim of its proprietors is to render it more and more worthy of its past history, and of the confidence which the public repose in it. Two out of three of the original proprietors still direct its policy, and guide it in all public questions. They purpose that the TIMES shall continue to keep clear of all partisan and unworthy influences and cliques, and aim to represent the great body of the public, as distinguished from personal interests. It possesses a perfectly independent position, and is free to speak the truth on all subjects and about all men. Its yearly increased circulation attests, and the many calls to its pages and columns. It will continue to be a faithful exponent of Republican principles, and advocate, with unfailing energy, every course which tends to further the welfare of the people.

The editorial page will be devoted to discussing politics and news from special sources during the Presidential canvass. The departments of the paper will be as usually full and trustworthy. Renewed enterprise will be exhibited in every department of the paper, and large space will be devoted to reports of speeches made during elections, or on other important political occasions.

A very full summary of news, and many general articles of great interest, are published in the Semi-weekly editions; and in the Weekly edition there is an unabridged report of the proceedings at the Farmers' Club, an excellent summary of political information, and a great variety of matter suitable for family reading.

THE NEW-YORK TIMES is pre-eminently a family paper; all objectionable advertisements being rigidly excluded; and it has a constantly increasing circulation among the most respectable classes of the community.

A Glorious Victory.

The people have nobly responded to the appeals made to them. We have gained a greater victory than we dared to hope for. Once more can we be proud of our City and State, and rest in perfect security that the long reign of rascals and outlaws is over. Although the Tammany leaders delayed canvassing the vote until past midnight, and when we write—at 3 in the morning—the full returns are not in, enough is known to show that a splendid triumph is gained. This comes of the people interfering in their own affairs. All honor to the many estimable citizens who for weeks past have been sacrificing personal comfort to the welfare of the community—canvassing from house to house, and inducing people who have not voted for years past to assist in redeeming our City now! They have their reward. Let us hope that they will never again relapse into indifference concerning their own affairs.

We must briefly inscribe the details of this glorious and ever memorable victory. Of all the Tammany Senators offered for re-election TWEED alone is successful—and he will soon stand in the felon's dock. HORTON is beaten. GARDE and WOLTMAN are defeated. BRADLEY is literally "nowhere." Judge BARNARD is elected by a great majority, and LEONARD will receive this morning the latest insult that he has merited hence and revelation without even getting a mess of pottage for it. May that ever be the fate of venal traitors! Of the Assembly Districts we know little while we write, but our news columns will supply the latest information. The probability seems to be that TOM FIELDS is beaten and SEYMOUR elected—and that MR. TILDEN is returned in the Eighteenth District. We have gained four State Senators between this and Albany, and probably have a two-thirds majority in each House. With this we can sweep away the "New Charter," and pass any laws that may be necessary for the welfare of the people. The County ticket appears to be elected clean. The majority of SEGUIN is splendid—at least 20,000.

As for the State, it has come to our help with an ardor which we ought never to forget. In the districts where the TIMES has a very large circulation, the Republican gains are very striking. Thus, in Poughkeepsie, there is a Republican gain of some hundred. In the town of Yonkers we gain over six hundred. In Greenbush, Rensselaer County, the gain is over five hundred. And so the story goes in nearly all parts of the State. We judge from the figures now before us that we have carried the State ticket by from fifteen to twenty thousand majority.

Will anybody say now that it is of "no use" to fight against Tammany? Will the croakers tell us today that honest citizens stand no chance against corrupt politicians? The victory we have won is priceless, not only from what it gives us now, but because it will revive every man's faith in the ultimate triumph of truth and justice—because it will teach scheming politicians that the voice of the people is supreme, and that the immortal principles on which this Government is founded, although they may be momentarily stifled by dishonest factions, will constantly rise triumphant, while the men who assailed them will pass away to everlasting infamy.

The Result in Other States.

Elections were held yesterday in eight States besides New-York—viz.: in Massachusetts, New-Jersey, Maryland, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois, Virginia and Mississippi. In all but the last three the election was for Governor and other State officers and members of the Legislature.

In Massachusetts WILLIAM B. WASHBURN, the regular Republican candidate, is elected by an increased majority over last year. Three other candidates were in the field, representing the Democratic, Labor Reform and Prohibition Parties. The vote of the Labor Reformers was insignificant, and that of the Prohibitionists still more so. The Democrats failed to hold their own on the vote for Governor, and their candidate, JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, ran also as a candidate for the Legislature in his native town of Quincy, where he suffered a double defeat. The Republicans will have a large majority in both branches of the Legislature.

In New-Jersey, JOEL PARKER, the Democratic candidate for Governor, is believed to be elected by a reduced majority. At the last election for Governor in 1868, the Democratic majority was 7,622. PARKER's majority this year will probably be from 1,000 to 2,000. Both branches of the Legislature will be Republican.

In Maryland there have been large Republican gains from the last election for Congressmen, when the Democratic majority was nearly 20,000. The majority for W. P. WHYTE, the Democratic candidate for Governor, will probably not exceed 15,000. Last year the Democrats carried all the members of both branches of the Legislature, and they will have a majority large enough for all practical purposes this year.

Wisconsin has elected C. C. WASHBURN, Republican, for Governor, by a sufficiently large majority to show that the "new departure," as represented by JAMES R. DOOLITTLE, the Democratic candidate, has failed to make much headway in the West. All the other State officers, together with a majority of the members of the Legislature, will be Republican.

Our returns from Minnesota are very meagre, but they are sufficient to show that the Republican ticket, headed by HORACE AUSTIN for Governor, is elected by the usual majority. The Legislature will doubtless be Republican.

The election in Illinois was merely for two Congressmen—one at large and the other to fill a vacancy. The Republican candidates in both are elected.

We have no returns from Mississippi at the hour of going to press, but the signs before election indicated that it would go as it did last year, when the Republicans had seventy-six majority on joint ballot in the Legislature.

Number Two.

Let it not be supposed that we have worked for nothing. We have brought down number two of the Tammany knaves—PETER B. SWEENEY. When he found that his brother-in-law, BRADLEY, was defeated beyond all hope of recovery, he issued his letter of resignation. His modesty will not permit him to state his reason for abandoning his office. We are permitted to state it. He gets out to avoid being kicked out. He is credited with more sense than the other members of the Ring, and he sees plainly what such an uprising of the people as we witnessed yesterday portends. False counting cannot blind him to the ominous facts. The doom of the Ring is sealed. HILTON's specious lies cannot deceive SWEENEY. He perceives that all is over, and he "comes down" without waiting for any more shots.

This is a great triumph. The most cunning knave of all is disposed of. But two other knaves remain. OAKEY HALL, the literary mountebank and political trickster, will cling to his office while he can. TWEED will doubtless boast of his majority in the district which his organ, the World, calls a "loathsome seat." While these men remain in power the citizens can never be safe. But they too must yield. Such a spirit as was evoked yesterday must result in their being swept away. Innumerable frauds were practised yesterday, but TWEED and HALL know that they have nearly reached the end of their tether. TWEED will never be allowed to take his seat in the Senate. We hope he will be in the State Prison before the Legislature meets. At any rate, Tammany is destroyed. Last night the leaders did not even have the spirit to open Tammany Hall, or exhibit any returns from it. We must now carry on our work. We must take care next session to put an effectual stop to such election frauds as were witnessed yesterday. In the meantime, the prospects are as bright as before they were dark. Let the honest voters take courage. Much as their vote was falsified in the City yesterday, the effect of it will be prodigious. It is the death-knell of corruption in every form and among all parties. We must now have honest men in public offices, from the smallest to the greatest. For that principle we, at least, shall continue to strive until victory is fully accomplished.

The Emperor Speaks.

In a London journal of Oct. 23 there appears a very remarkable document. The Emperor NAPOLEON has unburdened his mind at last, and, that there may be no mistake about it, the result is printed both in French and English. The Emperor's manifesto is ingenious and characteristic; its issue, next to saying nothing, was, perhaps, the wisest step he could take, and it probably includes the best things he could say. The first three sentences are clever enough to remind us of the fallen monarch's palmiest days. "It is pretended that the Bonapartists are conspiring. I do not believe it. It is only parties who feel themselves in a minority in a country who have recourse to occult practices." Certainly no one is a better judge on this point than His Majesty, and the implicit disclaimer by which he repudiates any personal connection with conspiracy, even if it exists, is adroit and effective. For twenty-three years, the Emperor goes on to say, he has been at the head of a great nation, and has been animated by a single thought—the welfare of that nation. He, therefore, although in misfortune, "preserves the sentiment of his dignity, the conviction of his rights, and casts away from him the low intrigues which degrade those who have recourse to them." To all who have come to him from France, he has held, he affirms, the same language—that he is opposed to either intrigues or plots, and that France needs repose, to enable her to recover from her disasters.

But although NAPOLEON III. denies that he has any intent to conspire to regain what he deems his rights, he by no means surrenders those rights, but in bold terms sets forth and reasserts them. He declares that he, in virtue of popular will, is still the legitimate Sovereign of France. Until the people have been regularly consulted no decision of the Chamber, he avers, can deprive him of that position. Therefore when officers of the French Army have written to him asking whether they should place themselves at the disposition of the present Government, and if he consented to release them from their oath, he has answered that, as between order on one hand and anarchy on the other, they need not hesitate to serve their country; but that he could not release them from their oath until, by a direct vote, the entire nation should have chosen a "definitive Government." Further than this the Emperor observes, with a "certain" and not unpardonable "degree of satisfaction," that the Republic is forced to act with severity against the very men who, during twenty-three years, attacked his Government, and "to adopt many of the measures which he regarded as indispensable to the maintenance of order.

In a word, the Emperor puts his faith, as heretofore, on a Plebiscite, and wishes to be understood as holding that to be the supreme law. He practically pledges himself to respect the decision of a universal vote of the nation; but he declines to recognise the legality of the present or any other order of things, in the absence of such a measure. The London Times, while evidently disposed to treat the deposed monarch with much courtesy, and not unmindful of the possibilities of the future, argues bluntly against his theory. Appeal to the direct vote of the people has never been made, it affirms, in France "except after a deed of violence for a sanction of that deed." It is not aware that the French ever expressed a free wish to be governed by the people assembled in their comitia. All the orderly instincts of France are toward representative government. This seems plausible, yet it must be admitted that to argue, in the interests of the Republic as opposed to the Empire, against universal suffrage, looks like maintaining an illogical and untenable principle. The restoration of the Empire may be a most undesirable thing, but it should apparently be prevented by other means than the suppression of the leading and typical democratic function.

That NAPOLEON III. thinks of returning to Paris is made tolerably clear by his manifesto. It was rendered clearer still on the day succeeding the publication of the interview, by a note from Chislehurst written by Count DAVILLIER. The Times, in a leading article, on the 26th October, stated that the Emperor, pending the campaign that closed at Sedan, had "vowed in his proclamation that his capital should never see him again except either Dead or Victorious." On the 28th, the Count, authorized by NAPOLEON, flatly denies this assertion: "Jamais l'Empereur, ni dans ses proclamations, ni dans ses discours, ni dans ses entretiens particuliers, n'a tenu ce prétemptueux langage."

The significance of this denial at such a moment is unmistakable. That the Emperor wants to go back to Paris is obvious. That the French, for their part, do not want him there we are constantly assured. Still, in default of a plebiscite, this is easier said than proved. As Rev. Mr. HARRENDS said, after his visit to Paris in 1830, "The French don't know what they want, and will never be satisfied till they get it." There is certainly no doubt that if, just now, they showed themselves better satisfied with the Republic, there would be fewer hopes for the Empire.

A New-York Statesman in Conversation.

It is unfortunately true, as we have often intimated to our readers, that the majority of the experiments made in this country in co-operation by the laboring classes, or by the employers in their behalf, have been failures. Very few of the attempts to unite the interests of employers and workmen, or to promote the interests of the workmen in purchasing, or to engage the laboring classes in combined production, have ever succeeded in the United States. The co-operative groceries of Connecticut were failures; the building associations of the same State proved mostly unsuccessful; the efforts at co-operative distribution in the Novelty Iron Works, in this City, came to nothing; and we hear of very few "Industrial Partnerships" anywhere (except in our piloting and whaling business) which have turned out happily.

And yet nowhere is such an arrangement so much needed as in New-York City. The trades here are subject to disastrous strikes, and great losses are inflicted every year by the conflicts of Labor and Capital. Moreover, labor has here through its political influence control over legislation, and can make the position of capital in certain branches very perilous indeed. An eight hour law, when faithfully executed, is often equivalent to an immediate addition of twenty per cent to the laborer's wages, and so much withdrawal from the profits of the employers. So strong is the position of the laboring class here, that a little advantage gained by them in some of the future struggles with the employers, will entirely drive certain trades from the City. It is of the utmost importance that here, as everywhere, Labor and Capital should be united.

One firm in this City, it appears from a recent communication in the London Spectator, has made a remarkable and successful experiment in this direction, to which the attention of all students of this great problem should be called. The Messrs. BREWSTER, carriage makers, of this City, state that during, as their business enlarged, they were necessarily more and more thrown out of communication and sympathy with their employes, and that thus misunderstandings might arise which would lead to strikes, and knowing that a valuable business like theirs would be greatly injured by a sudden strike, they resolved to give their workmen a permanent interest in their business. The weak points of the English industrial partnerships they thought to be the paying labor its share of the profits after capital had received its interest and the managers their salaries. For thus, in a bad year, when every man had done his full duty, it would happen that interest and salaries would eat up all the profits, and the laborers get nothing. The average working man, as Mr. BREWSTER says, would not understand this, and would become suspicious and talk of "bad management," and lose his interest in increasing production or economising expenses, and finally, perhaps, would leave the establishment entirely. To avoid these troubles, the Messrs. BREWSTER resolved to pay their men the highest wages of the trade, and in addition a certain share of the profits, before capital or the managers were paid, and to put each year by itself, so that in the event of the capital being seriously impaired, the men would not have to make up the losses of the employers.

The percentage with which they commenced was ten per cent. of the profits, which, if we consider that the business was prosperous and that no difficulty had ever occurred between the masters and their workmen, and that this was an untried experiment, seemed a fair arrangement. They also gave the men great power in the administration of the concern, allowing the "Board of Governors" at any time to pass a resolution advancing the wages and only giving the President—one of the firm—the power of vetoing, but in case the resolution was repassed by a two-thirds vote, permitting it to be law. From this liberal arrangement they have experienced no annoyance or obstruction to their business. Harmony has reigned, they state, throughout the establishment, and the utmost good feeling prevails between employers and workmen. There is in every part of the factory, the most careful cleanliness and good order. Far greater economy is shown in every department, the men are more punctual in attendance, there is less waste of stock, and improvement in all directions. The work is better done and the production more valuable than under the old plan.

Their first dividend was made in July, 1870, for six months, of three and seven-eighths per cent., amounting to $3,600; the last was in July, 1871, of four per cent., or $8,200.

Here is certainly a fair and reasonable effort made to unite the interests of labor and capital in one branch of trade in New-York. The share paid to the workmen, it is true, is small—still it is a share, and gives them a permanent interest in the business. It is also a voluntary concession of employers to laborers, and must have good effects on both parties. Strikes will not be apt to occur in the Messrs. BREWSTER's trade, and if the working man chooses to take only his eight hours, he does it, and pays for it, as other people do, by reduced profits. The increased economy of the factory will probably almost pay the allotment to the men; while the whole business is put on a firmer, more satisfactory and more humane basis.

The Attitude of Russia.

The attitude of Russia becomes each day, so far as Europe is concerned, more alarming. Sixteen years have sped since the Emperor NICHOLAS lay a dying, disappointed man, having lived just long enough to see his dearest projects thwarted by the events of the Crimean war. His last hours on earth were almost exclusively passed with his successor, whom he had for years been assiduously instructing in affairs of State. Several times during their parting interviews, the Emperor ALEXANDER left his father's bedside to write down his exact words. What passed on that occasion he alone knows, with the exception of the very last articulate words of the dying man, which were uttered in French, in the presence of others. "Dites à Fritz (the King of Prussia) de rester le même pour la Russie, et dans pas oublier les paroles de papa." "Tell FRITZ to remain the same toward Russia, and not to forget his father's words."

From that hour the policy of Russia seemed, so soon at least as the Crimean war was ended, to be one of devotion to recovery of forces and internal improvement. Six years after, on the 3d of March, 1861, was promulgated that act indicative of such stupendous individual power—the emancipation of forty millions of beings by a stroke of the pen. By September, 1863, the emancipation of the serfs on the CROWN lands was all but accomplished; land was granted to the peasants on the estates of the crown, which they are to pay for in forty-nine years by instalments, each being equal to the poll-tax formerly yielded by them. At the end of this period they become freehold land-owners. In March, 1863, serfdom was abolished throughout the Empire; the serfs being compensated on a scale of payment by which their previous labors was estimated, at a yearly rental of six per cent.—so that for every six roubles that the laborer annually earned, he had to pay one hundred to his master, as his capital value, to become a freeholder. Of this sum the serfs had to give immediately twenty per cent., while the remaining eighty per cent. was disbursed as an advance by the Government to the owners, to be repaid at intervals extending over forty-nine years by the free peasants. Contemporaneously with the completion of this vast measure, various other reforms of the most important character were begun, and have since been brought into operation. The old Russian bureaucrat, with his itching palm ever in need of golden ointments, is almost a nuisance of the past. In the Courts of justice salaries have been immensely raised, and competent persons appointed to high judicial positions.

The path of commerce has, in various important directions, been smoothed and widened; and this, in conjunction with the other liberalising measures, has caused an enormous augmentation in public wealth, and a degree of material prosperity unprecedented in the annals of the Empire. The effect of all these eminently remedial measures has been to weld together more closely than ever the Russian people, and to inspire them with a devotion for their ruler such as the citizens of a free country can scarcely comprehend. The power, therefore, of the Emperor ALEXANDER is not the power of the old Czars, commanding slaves to obey, but the power of one regarded as a demi-god, commanding devoted worshipers. And now come features that are less agreeable to contemplate. Russia can have no apprehension of aggression from Europe, which would be only too glad to let her alone. Therefore, military and naval preparations on her part, if on a large scale, must be deemed of aggressive significance; and that such preparations have, during the last three years, been actively making, there is not a shadow of doubt. Eight of the recent lines of railways have been designed principally for strategical purposes, so that the difficulties of moving troops in this vast Empire may be no longer apprehended. The army has been remodelled, in accordance with a decree of December, 1870, on the German system, by which in fact almost every man will become more or less of a soldier: and when it is remembered that the population of Russia is more than double that of any other European Power, some idea may be gained of the force at the Czar's bidding. An equal activity has been displayed in the navy, and the fleet is now very considerable, and, what is more to the purpose, of home manufacture, plate armors and all. This attitude unmistakably means aggressive war whenever diplomacy fails to effect its aim. For the present, St. Petersburg and the Porte appear to be on perfectly friendly terms, and Austria seems to be the point where danger is most likely to occur.

The union of the Sclavic race is a traditional aim with Russia, and longing eyes have been cast by her at the frontier provinces of her Imperial neighbor. Austria would, single handed, probably be no match for Russia, but England could scarcely avail, averse though she be to war, in consideration of the treaty of 1856, coming to the aid of Austria, and thus a frightful contest might ensue. It will be a source of lasting regret if the Czar, who has earned so splendid a title to fame in the path of peace, cannot be content to forego the lust of conquest, and rest satisfied with promoting happiness and civilization. Were he to pass away now, it would be with a reputation adored for all time by his people and their children's children.

Female Farmers.

On the eastern shore of Canandaigua Lake, according to the Rochester Union, live two very singular people. The question whether women can make good lecturers, doctors, professors or store-keepers, is now, by many, conceded on the score of practical demonstration; and the cases to which we refer may be profitably cited in behalf of the fitness of women to succeed, unaided, in agriculture.

Sloping down in emerald turf to the lake there lie, affirms our authority, two beautiful farms which have been entirely worked out of primitive wildness by women. The owners are two sisters, daughters of a pioneer named FULLER, who, more than half a century ago, made his way into the forest regions surrounding the romantic lakes of interior New-York. At his death he left his children land, but little else, and the two girls, LAURA and ELECTA, resolved to become farmers. Both are now past sixty, and, since early womanhood, they have cultivated their ground with their own hands. Each has a smiling farm and a snug cottage, the latter nestling among shade-trees, close to the edge of the lake. The lands, bearing "fruit, vines, grain, and other crops," stretch far away up the rolling hills. The editor of the journal named has lately "interviewed" the proprietors, and thus became aware of the facts he has made public. "All about," he says, "looks thrifty," and the farm-work appears to be thoroughly and judiciously done. Miss LAURA FULLER was first called upon. This lady wears "a short and rather loosely-fitting dress, a hood and a pair of men's boots." She has "a beard as heavy as is often seen upon a man, and a voice that would not be mistaken for that of a woman." She is "tolerably well informed," and showed that her heart was in her vocation. That she plies it without masculine help and with decided prosperity is unquestionable. Her sister, ELECTA, is, however, regarded as the best manager and "most business-like person of the two." Her visitor found this lady to have much the appearance of her sister, but she is "more dignified and patriarchal, with a head considerably bald, and looks whitened by the frosts of many Winters." Miss FULLER, we are assured, cut away the virgin forest that once covered her farm with her own hands. All the toil that was needed to bring the land into condition she performed, solitary and alone. She has reared stock of all kinds, "moulding fine horses and colts, for which a great fancy had been taken." The wild beasts that formerly infested her neighborhood, this Diana of the wilderness herself slew; and rumor has it that "men who had presumed to trifle with ELECTA had fallen as did the beasts and trees." We take it for granted, however, that this is one of those delicate exaggerations which the world is so prone to invent for persons at all eccentric, and that wood and fur have been the only victims to Miss ELECTA's bow and spear.

There seems to be no reason, at all events, to doubt the fact that two enterprising and courageous women have gone into the heart of a new country, and there, by the sweat of their brows, and by the skill assigned to our first ancestor, have carved out for themselves an honorable independence. They have got from the ground an honest living, and have enough laid up to sustain them in age, when they cease to labor. Perhaps farming is not the avocation we should select for women, and certainly the exposure and rough work inseparable from it are ill-suited in general for the delicate organization of the sex. Still, there are exceptions to all rules, and a distinction is to be drawn between a pursuit that is inherently degrading and one that is merely physically unsuitable. Agriculture, assuredly, is not the former, and, whether the example is extensively followed or not, it is interesting to know that women can and have made prosperous essays in it. The case of these persevering sisters is noteworthy as being so totally different from that of amateurs. They have worked at husbandry for fifty years. They have brought plenty out of a wilderness, and saved enough for a future of ease. They have done without male help every whit as well as men could have done without theirs, and the case deserves record and commendation as showing in a practical way what women may, if they choose, accomplish and know about farming.

MINOR TOPICS.

Mr. GLADSTONE and his colleagues are to attend the annual banquet to be given by the Lord Mayor of London to-morrow. It is a curious commentary on the existing condition of British politics, that the occasion seems to be looked forward to with keener interest than it has been for years. The Premier has been "stumping" the country, and the response of the people to the "people's William" has been far less cordial than was expected. The announcement of some new line of policy, which shall revive popular enthusiasm and reunite the somewhat disorganized ranks of the Liberal Party, is therefore looked for to-morrow. The London waiting men have somewhat startled the Liberal politicians by their readiness to co-operate with any political party for the sake of promoting certain social reforms, tending to improve their own condition. The determination to push exploded reforms, like the Ballot bill, will obviously be insufficient to give the Gladstone Administration the confidence of the country.

France presents, at present, the curious spectacle of a country ruled by what one of its leading journals calls "the force of circumstances." The country has drifted into a republic in virtue of this, and Legitimists, Orleanists and Bonapartists are alike powerless for harm, because of the same restraining force. M. THIERS yields to the same power in sending an Ambassador to represent the French Republic at the Court of VICTOR EMMANUEL, and under the very nose of its irate friend the Pope. So, in other matters of commercial policy and administrative progress, M. THIERS can neither be the protectionist and centralist which he is by conviction, because the same controlling "circumstances" decree otherwise. France, in fact, only needs a few years of sober reflection to be able to perceive the jewel that resides on the harsh forehead of adversity. The "force of circumstances" will then be recognised in the directing power of a well-balanced and intelligent public opinion.

There is nothing that more distinctly marks the progress of the age than the rapidity with which the electric telegraph lines are being carried through the hitherto fastnesses of the South American continent, there confronting the antiquated ideas implanted years ago by the Spanish and Portuguese adventurers, and which for centuries have been so zealously sustained under the powerful protection of the followers of LOYOLA. In no section of the Southern continent is this distinctive feature of modern progress more notable than in the Empire of Brazil, whose liberal-minded Sovereign has ever been a firm friend of progress. Brazil has as yet, however, but nine hundred and fifty American miles of telegraphic wire, exclusive of the wires of the different railways; but there are many lines being erected, one of which, ten hundred and sixty miles in length, will shortly unite Rio de Janeiro with Pernambuco. Still there is a vast field for telegraphic enterprise yet open in the dominions of Dom PEDRO, and extensive contracts are daily made with large European and American capitalists. The territory is so vast that, so far, Brazil has only been able to construct one

Balize of telegraph line for each section of one thousand leagues of territory. But Brazil is far outstripping her sister States, and before very long all her principal cities will be in telegraphic communication. It is the boast of the Emperor of Brazil that his reign shall see his country rival the great Republic of the North.

We hear great complaints with regard to the management of the reading-room of the Mercantile Library—that it is shabby, ill-appointed and unremunerative to every respect. The floor, which is uncovered at all, is carpeted by dirty pieces of goose-flesh bleeding full of holes. The seats are so knotty that it is necessary to examine their suitability before sitting down. The ventilation is neglected. There is not even a bottle of ink or a pen available for those who wish to make a note or extract from the books of reference, which are thrust "hindmost pell-mell" into miserable little compartments all-over. Instead of a smart, active young man being in the room to attend to members and supply their wants, that duty is delegated to languid young ladies, many of whom come in accompanied by gentlemen unprovided with ladies' friends. It seems strange and discreditable that this should be the state of affairs in the Mercantile Library of the Empire City, an association holding property to the amount of hundreds of thousands of dollars a year, and which ought, undoubtedly to be the leading institution of the kind in the country.

The great English political-social alliance bubble has burst under the first prick of publicity. The Peace and Commerce, who had been credited with exterminating the idea that English skilled workmen ought to have the benefit of something resembling our Homestead law, disclaim the importance of having listened to anything so revolutionary. The reply of the council of skilled artisans is, "If you did not, Mr. SOCRY RUSSELL has misled us." That eminent employer of labor being at present on the Continent, has not had the opportunity to explain fully his share in the transaction. It would indeed be more interesting to know, however, who inspired Mr. SOCRY RUSSELL? Here is a new Asiatic mystery, which it will require the author of The New Crusade to unravel.

We have heard of strange reasons for suicide, but that assigned by a young man who destroyed himself the other day at Canada has perhaps hardly been surpassed for eccentricity. The unfortunate deceased himself, and prior to taking the fatal plunge, to pull a messenger to take a letter for him to the nearest Police office. He was resolved that the world should know the reason for his act, and duly set it forth in the letter. That was to the effect that Mr. DARWIN having proved man to be descended from monkeys, the writer did not desire to live any longer. Assuming the young man's sanity, his crime is a curious instance of fatuity. Had Mr. DARWIN, on scientific as apart from religious grounds, proved the immortality of the soul, it is inscrutable how a religious skeptic might bring himself to self-murder; but supposing the contrary hypothesis to be established, which some claim to be a logical deduction from the Darwinian theory,—why and everything by such a procedure! To be sure, the dependent pagan, whom Mr. SWINBURNE makes to sing his "Hymn to Proserpine," might see a reason for it, but hardly any one else.

Chief-Justice MCKEAN has the sympathies of all good men in his endeavor to crush once and for all the monstrous anomaly of tolerated polygamy. It is somewhat unfortunate, however, that the Mormon statute against bigamy should have been selected as the basis on which the test case of HAMPTON has been tried and decided. There may be a species of poetical justice in making the sole of the Territorial Legislature an enemy whose memory may be drawn to punish the men who framed them. But it barely accords with our ideal of legal justice to interpret a statute by means which could never have been imputed by its framers, for the purpose of punishing a crime sufficiently provided for by the penal laws of the United States. For a quarter of a century, we have tolerated polygamy, whether from weakness, indifference, or mistaken expediency, does not much matter. While we are on every account bound to correct it now, we ought to do it in a way equally removed from either persecution or fanaticism.

Count BEUST has resigned the portfolio of Foreign Affairs in Austria. It is stated that this step has been taken in accordance with the expressed desire of the Emperor. It is hardly probable that the anti-Prussian leanings of the great Saxon statesman have again brought him into conflict with the policy of Count BISMARCK, and his dismissal may be accepted as a proof of the perfect diplomatic understanding which exists between the Courts of Berlin and Vienna. That the fertile brain of the German Chancellor is hatching some new scheme is possible enough, and Count BEUST has too much of ingrained antipathy to Prince BISMARCK to be a perfectly trustworthy partner of his plans.

The Mexican law of libel bears a very close resemblance to the French. It authorizes the prompt seizure of all printed matter having a tendency to interfere with private business, or assail private or public character. The effect of it is to shield swindlers, and prevent the newspaper Press of the country from performing the proper functions. Recently Major CLARKE, an American gentleman, who publishes a weekly paper in English at the City of Mexico, copied an article from the New-York papers exposing a lottery swindle which had a branch office in Mexico. The agent immediately procured an order to suppress the issue, and on the same afternoon had the Major arraigned for libel. The case went to trial on the following Monday, before a special jury of merchants, who construed the law in such a way as to enable them to bring in a verdict of acquittal. This result will be regarded with satisfaction by every true friend of Mexico.

The Office of Auditor-General of Pennsylvania.

From the Philadelphia Press, Nov. 7.

In reference to the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. PURVIS, and the manner in which it is to be filled, there is the usual controversy of opinions among the editorial lawyers. Dr. PURVIS would have held over until the close of the office on the first Tuesday of next May, at which time Gen. HARTRANFT's term will expire. The law on the question is explicit enough in certain cases, but not in this. The act of Assembly of April 8, 1868, provides that in case any vacancy should occur in either of said offices, by death, resignation, or otherwise, the same shall be filled by appointment of the Governor, and the person so appointed shall continue in office until the end of the next session of the Legislature, when the Governor has the right to fill the office. The question rather still arises, however, if there can be vacancy before there is any official announcement or record of the office ever having been filled. However, the whole question, one way or the other, rests with the Legislature. By repealing the act and ordering a special election, or by simply doing nothing, they can throw the selection either on the Governor or the people.

Republican Victory Throughout the State—The Entire Ticket, Watts Sherman Excepted, Elected.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 7—Midnight.—It is the general impression, Massachusetts all right, Republican by a decided majority. The election has commenced with excitement and the vote thrown has been large, but the victory is none the less complete. The entire Republican ticket is elected by a handsome majority, and a strong Republican Legislature is secured. Reports from different parts of the State give Mr. WASHBURN a majority considerably in excess of that of Gov. CLAFLIN last year. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS has met with an inglorious defeat. He has not content with running in the State at large as the Democratic candidate for Governor, ran in his own town of Quincy for the Legislature, and was there beaten by a Republican candidate HENRY H. PAXON by 108 votes. Here, and in some other places, ballots with the name of Gen. BUTLER for Governor were widely distributed, but they were accepted by few voters. The Labor Reformers make a poor exhibit, and the Prohibitionists a poorer. WENDELL PHILLIPS was a candidate for the Legislature on the latter ticket, and the number of votes he received was ridiculously small. In Charlestown the question of annexation to this City was made a test. The "Ayes" carried the day, electing all but one of the entire legislative delegation, and to-night are exceedingly jubilant over the result. In the City WASHBURN led ADAMS by about 1,000 votes, and the Republicans carried all but one of the Senatorial districts and the majority of the Representatives. Among the Senators elected are Hon. A. H. COOLIDGE, President of the last Senate, and Hon. CHARLES HALE, late Consul-General to Egypt. There was something of a warm fight over the Register of Probate, Gen. KIMBALL, the Republican candidate, being charged to many hosses of various charges to curry against him of corruption when Assistant Postmaster. The result was his defeat, and the election of F. B. GUNNEY, the Democratic candidate.

Half-past 1 o'clock A. M.—The total vote of Boston is 14,—Washburn, 8,—; Adams, 1,—; Chamberlain, (Labor Reform,) 2,—; and Pitman, (Prohibitionist,) 4,—. The Democratic minority in the Legislature must be disheartening. The Labor Reformers, according to the returns that have reached, have not elected a dozen representatives, and the Prohibitionists need not have voted at all. Over CHARLES HALE'S election to the Senate there is gratulation, as the ward he represents is one of the hot beds of Democracy in the city. Not a Democrat is elected in Worcester to any office, and throughout the western portion of the State the Republicans have carried nearly everything. From Bristol's District, Gloucester, none but Democrats are sent to the Legislature.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

Boston, with the exception of the Fifth Ward, gives Washburn, 8,345; Adams, 7,113; Chamberlin, 581; Pitman, 397. Last year, including the Fifth Ward, the vote stood: Claflin, 10,082; Adams, 6,726; Phillips, 1,349; scattering, 21.

Fall River—Washburn, 1,907; Adams, 904; Chamberlin, 248; Pitman, 185. Last year, Claflin, 1,561; Adams, 1,121; Phillips, 554.

New-Bedford—Washburn, 1,882; Adams, 904; Chamberlin, 151; Pitman, 209. Last year—Claflin, 1,619; Adams, 783; Phillips, 97.

Quincy—Washburn, 926; Adams, 287; Chamberlin, 76; Pitman, 14. Last year—Claflin, 436; Adams, 264; and Phillips, 56.

The full returns from several of the principal towns have not yet been received in this State. The vote is unusually small, and little popular interest is manifested in this city to-night in regard to the elections.

10 P. M.—The returns from 177 cities and towns give Washburn, in round numbers, 81,000 votes; Adams, 57,000; Chamberlin and Pitman, about 3,000 each. Washburn's plurality will exceed Claflin's of last year, which was a little less than 9,000. The Legislature will be largely Republican.

WISCONSIN.

Washburn Elected Governor by Decided Majorities—Large Republican Gains Throughout the State.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 7.—The vote polled in the State to-day has been the largest known for years. WASHBURN has undoubtedly been elected, with an increased majority secured for the Republicans to the Legislature. Fresh, the Republican nominee for Assistant Governor, who has been opposed strenuously by the Temperance men and Methodists of the State, has run far ahead of his ticket, carrying Rock, Democratic, in the City of Milwaukee. Democrats has only a majority of 1,500, while the Republicans have elected four Assemblymen, one an independent, and Fond du Lac City and Iowa gives WASHBURN a majority of 1,000. Oshkosh returns indicate a Republican majority on the city of 1,200. Platteville gives 250 majority in Madison, while Kenosha gives WASHBURN 50 majority, and the Governor, Fratt, a majority of 240. Manitowoc gives WASHBURN 120 majority, but Doolittle carries Two Rivers by a majority of 150. Sheboygan, Eagon and Oakfield, in Fond du Lac County, increases WASHBURN'S majority by 200. Three villages in Rock County, including Janesville, give WASHBURN a majority of 400. The following are WASHBURN'S majorities in some other cities and towns heard from: Baraboo, 130; Akaro, 210; Monroe, 134; West Eau Claire, 130; Menomonee, 245; Whitewater, 327; Delafield, 200. Fratt and Fratt's 274 Chicago give decreased Republican majorities. Lacrosse County rolls up a majority of 600 for WASHBURN, and Waupun and two adjoining towns give an increased majority for WASHBURN. In other districts, Grahame, of Janesville, Coleman, of Fond du Lac, and Phillips, of Eau Claire, all Republicans, have been elected by good majorities. Elmer, of Fond du Lac, and Thorpe, of Chippewa Valley, will go to the Senate. For the Republicans this Winter the counties are all right, and although reports come in slowly, we are assured the Republican gains are large among the farmers. Advices just received from the Republican Central Committee at Madison affirm the good news, and tell us we may calculate safely on 10,000 majority for WASHBURN for Governor, and a good working majority in both branches of the Legislature.

MINNESOTA.

Probable Election of the Republican Candidates.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 7.—Returns from the State come in slowly. Fifty-seven cities and towns give AUBURN, Republican, for Governor, 1,000 majority. The returns from this city are not yet counted. No returns received from the Southern part of the State.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 8—1:30 A. M.—Republican State ticket probably all elected. Governor and Secretary of State by 2,000 to 3,000; balance of ticket by larger majority. Legislature strongly Republican.

NEW-JERSEY.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

A Close Vote on the Governor—Parker Probably Elected by a Small Majority—The State Legislature Decidedly Republican.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 7.—The Republican State Central Committee, which was in session last evening here at the Custom-house, conceded the election of Ex-Gov. PARKER, Democrat, by a majority of from 1,500 to 3,000. Col. JAMES PECKWELL, Democrat, is elected Sheriff in Essex County—City of Newark—by 400 majority. The Republican defeat can be attributed to the unpopularity of Mr. CORNELIUS WALSH, the Republican candidate among the working men. The defeat of Col. COURTNEY for Sheriff in Essex County is attributed to his foreign birth, he being a Frenchman and unpopular among the Germans. The Legislature will remain Republican by nine on joint ballot.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

NEWARK, Nov. 7.—Contrary to all expectation the Democrats have carried the City of Newark by a large majority. JOEL PARKER, for Governor, has obtained a majority of 626, and PECKWELL, for Sheriff of the County of Essex, in opposition to be elected by a majority of at least 500. The excitement in the city is intense. Large and noisy crowds are surrounding all the newspapers and telegraph offices. The returns from the State are very slow in coming in, but so far are very reassuring for the Republicans; WALSH has already carried the County of Cape May by 120 majority. Hudson is carried by the Democrats by 2,500, but from all other parts of the State the Republican candidates are conceded to have the best of it.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

Bergen County will probably give Parker 1,800 majority.

Election Affairs in Camden—A Policeman Shot.

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 7.—Officer JONES was dangerously shot in the groin this evening by a supposed Philadelphia repeater, while conveying him to the station house. The prisoner made his escape during the confusion.

MARYLAND.

Election of the Democratic Candidates for Governor—Increase of the Republican Vote in the State.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7.—The entire vote in the city is as follows: TURNER, 14,750; WHYTE, 22,972. The returns from the counties are incomplete, but indicate that the Republicans have carried Frederick, Cecil, Anne Arundel, Alleghany, Washington, and scattering returns show a steady Republican gain. Judge PEARCE, Republican, is reported to have carried Alleghany County by 1,500, and is elected. Judge BOWIE, Republican, is also elected over BRADLEY. The Republicans had not a member in the last Legislature and not a Judge on the bench, a constable or magistrate in the State. As to the Governor's election there is no doubt of the election of WHYTE, Democrat, though we will not have full returns from the lower counties before to-morrow night. The Republicans are joyful over the result as far as known.

CHICAGO.

Triumph of the Union Fire-Proof Ticket.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 7.—Returns from thirty-nine out of the eighty-one precincts in the city give MEDILL, for Mayor, 9,261; HOLDEN, 1,856. It is thought MEDILL'S majority will reach 12,000. The Fire-proof candidates for Aldermen are elected in nineteen out of twenty wards.

12½ A. M.—Result of election in this city is even more gratifying than the friends of successful candidates dared to anticipate, in a total vote of from 33,000 to 34,000, MEDILL and his associates on the Union fire-proof ticket have full 12,000 majority, and the candidates for the county officers have full as large a majority. Returns for Mayor from fifty-three out of the eighty one precincts, give MEDILL 12,984, HOLDEN 2,826; MEDILL, minority, 8,926; JOHN L. BEVERIDGE, The Republican candidate for Congressman at large in this State is elected by about 20,000 majority, in the Sixth Congressional District, where an election was held yesterday to fill vacancy occasioned by the resignation of BURTON COOK. HENRY SHAFF, the Reform candidate, is elected by about 4,000 majority. Wisconsin elects Gen. C. C. WASHBURNE, the Republican candidate for Governor, and his associates on the Republican ticket, by an increased majority over 1869, when it was 6,276; in 100 towns he gains 400. Both branches of the Legislature are Republican. Minnesota elects AUSTIN, the Republican candidate for Governor, by a majority about the same as two years ago.

VIRGINIA.

Entire Success of the Conservative Ticket.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

RICHMOND, Nov. 7.—The official vote of this City shows a Conservative majority of 1,186. This is 900 gain on the municipal election of May last. In 1869, WALKER, for Governor, received a majority of only 70 in this city. The Conservatives seem to gain everywhere; they will have at least a two-thirds majority in each branch of the Legislature.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Nov. 7.—MEADE and WARDEN, Conservatives, for the House of Delegates, and THOMAS and TAYLOR, Conservatives, for the Senate, carry this city, the former by a majority of 261 and 101, and the latter by 145 each. Returns from the county have not yet been received. The Conservatives are supposed to have elected their candidates.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 7.—The general opinion is that the aggregate Conservative majority in the State will reach 20,000. Reports from all points show that the best of order prevailed.

MISSISSIPPI.

A Quiet Election—Decided Republican Majorities.

NATCHEZ, Miss., Nov. 7.—The election passed off quietly. The Republican vote is estimated at 5,000. There was no opposition.

VICKSBURG, Nov. 7.—The election passed off quietly, with the exception of a few small fights. No reliable news can be given before to-morrow.

The Texas Legislature on the Martial Law Question.

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 6.—The following resolution was adopted in the House by 45 to 32: "Be it resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring, that the action of His Excellency, E. J. DAVIS, in declaring martial law in the counties of Freestone and Limestone, be and the same is hereby disapproved as being unnecessary to the ends of public justice and uncalled for, as the Courts of said Counties were in the unobstructed exercise of their proper jurisdiction, and illegal, as the Legislature was then in session; and resolved that the Governor be, and he is hereby, requested and instructed to restore the civil authority in said Counties, and withdraw all armed forces therefrom and disband the same, and inform the Legislature of the express of the same, that action may be had in reference thereto."

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis of Events and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—1 A. M.—The area of highest barometer has extended south-eastward from Wisconsin to Virginia, but the pressure has now very generally fallen over this region, and still more so in the Middle and Eastern States. North-westerly winds have backed to south-west on the lower lakes, and have diminished in force on the Middle and East Atlantic Coast. The pressure has fallen somewhat in the Mississippi Valley and westward, and threatening weather and light rain is reported from Iowa and Nebraska southward to Louisiana. Clear weather has prevailed on the Pacific coast.

PROBABILITIES.

An area of low barometer will probably pass south-westward over the Lower Lakes and New-England on Wednesday, with south-westerly winds preceding it in these sections, and the pressure fall in the Ohio Valley and the South-west, with an area of rain extending north-eastward into Illinois. Southerly winds will probable prevail on Lake Michigan; southeasterly winds on the Gulf coast; the clear weather in Southern and Middle States be followed by cloudy weather during the day. Dangerous winds are not anticipated for our coast to-night, unless possibly for a short time on the eastern end of Lake Erie.

CRIME IN PHILADELPHIA.

The Murder of a Woman by her Drunken Husband—She is Shot Without Warning and Almost Instantly Killed.

From the Philadelphia Record, Nov. 7.

Yesterday afternoon, about 4 o'clock, Mrs. MARGARET A. OSKINS, aged about forty-six years, was shot and instantly killed by her husband, WILLIAM H. OSKINS, at the house of FRANCIS REGISTER, lawyer and claim agent, on Fifth-street, above Pine. The circumstances attending this shocking tragedy, as elicited from relatives of the deceased and eye-witnesses of the murder, are as follows: OSKINS and his wife formerly resided in Delaware, from which place they moved to Philadelphia. Shortly after arriving here, they rented the store and dwelling at No. 411 South-street, where the deceased carried on the millinery business up to the time of her violent death. Being industrious, persevering, and pleasant in her business intercourse, she succeeded tolerably well. The husband was a house-carpenter, and formerly worked for MESSRS. CROSS & MORRIS, at the Government warehouse, on the site of the Pennsylvania Bank Building, Second-street, above Walnut. He was discharged from their employ about six months ago. He was in the habit of getting drunk, and, while in this condition, shamefully abused his wife and children, which undoubtedly was a matter of deep grief to those who naturally and legally looked to him for support. His wife had no peace of mind, and her store business was very much interfered with. This appears to have been the condition of affairs for several years. Often, when he came home drunk, his conduct was so brutal that his wife and children were forced to leave the house, fearing that he would do them harm. On Sunday he was under the influence of liquor, and in consequence of this fact the wife and children sought refuge in the house of FRANCIS REGISTER, the husband of the sister of the deceased. During the afternoon the husband visited her at the house of MR. REGISTER, and here she told the visitor that she would not live with him because of his bad conduct. He departed, and in a short time sent word to her, but what that was could not be definitely ascertained. Nothing more was heard of him until yesterday morning, when he again called upon her. He was still in a state of intoxication, and said to his wife if she wanted a divorce he was willing to allow one. There was very little further conversation at this time, and he took his departure, but returned a few minutes before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He passed through the office of Mr. REGISTER, and entered the living-room adjoining, wherein Mrs. OSKINS, her sister and two children were engaged in conversation. When he opened the door he said, in a sneering manner, "Well, madame, are you going to reside here?" Before she had time to make a reply he drew a revolver (SMITH & WESSON'S) and fired two shots in rapid succession. The first ball took effect exactly in the centre of the top of her head, and the second entered her left side, about three inches below the armpit. At this moment JOHN DOUGHERTY, a clerk in the office of Mr. REGISTER, rushed into the room and caught OSKINS by the wrist just as he fired the third shot. The struggle between the murderer and the clerk was at a desperate character, during which the pistol was again discharged. The reports speedily aroused the neighborhood, and many excited persons flocked to the scene of horror. OSKINS, a stout man over five feet, ten inches in height, has light hair and eyes, very thin in muscular development, and round shouldered. Upon searching him at the lock-up the pistol was found. It was a seven shooter: four chambers were empty, the remainder being loaded.

State Agent Evans, of Pennsylvania, Admitted to Bail.

GEORGE O. EVANS, the State claims agent, of Pennsylvania, who was last week acquitted of the criminal charge on a habeas corpus before Judge FRANCIS, was discharged as HARRISBURG, on Monday, on common bail for his personal appearance at the civil suit. A telegram to the Philadelphia Inquirer says: "The gentlemen who are his bondsmen represent over a million of dollars above all their liabilities in Philadelphia, Delaware and Dauphin Counties. His case has now come to be regarded as a novelty in legal practice, no such case having ever before arisen in Pennsylvania, so that the precedents of the States and others but recent, must in a large measure govern this case."

TAMMANY BRAINED.

Peter B. Sweeny Retires from the Broken Ring.

He Resigns His Office—He Bows Public Life for Him—He will Hold no Office Hereafter—He Announces His Intention Only to Vote, but does not say How Often.

The best evidence that PETER B. SWEENY has given of the possession of "brains" is found in the letter printed below, in which he tenders his resignation of the office of Commissioner of Public Parks. This missive was addressed to the Mayor on the 1st inst., but was withheld from the world until the close of the canvass, for reasons that are self-evident. At its date, and probably long before, Mr. SWEENY'S "brains" had enabled him to grasp the situation, and to reach the conclusion that the best thing he could do was to retire from public life. HALL and TWEED would have done likewise long ago, if they had had sen se enough. Time was that when the brains were out the man would die. It has not been so with this precious pair, but their end is near; the Ring received its death-blow some time since, and now that its brains have been knocked out, is capable of little further mischief. Here is the letter:

NEW-YORK, Nov. 1, 1871.

Hon. A. Oakey Hall, Mayor of the City of New-York:

DEAR SIR: In conformity with the intention expressed to you several weeks ago, to withdraw wholly from public life at the termination of the approaching election, I hereby tender my resignation of the office of Commissioner of Public Parks of the City of New-York, to take effect on the 30th day of November, inst., requesting that the fact shall not be made known until after the election.

I should have resigned for the purpose indicated, at a much earlier period, had I felt at liberty to do so. I believe it to be my duty to maintain my position in the political organization with which I have been identified until after the election, that I might do all in my power, through its agency, to secure the success of the Democratic Party and its candidates. This duty I shall perform faithfully and zealously to the last. When the election is over I will feel that I am at liberty to consult my own wishes, and henceforth my connection with political affairs will be confined to the single act of voting. I have explained to you personally the reasons which have prompted this action. These reasons are of an overwhelming character, but I do not propose at this time to give them to the public. I simply intend in this note to communicate my resignation. The position I have held in the Department of Parks, although responsible in character, and attended with no pecuniary compensation, has, nevertheless, been exceedingly agreeable to me in the opportunity it has afforded to advance important public improvements, and in the pleasant official relations which I have enjoyed. I sever my connection with the Department with regret. I have felt an ardent interest in the improvements of the City parks, and I desired to continue my co-operation in their development under the new plans until completion. They are now practically finished. Asking your prompt acceptance of this resignation, I am,

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

PETER B. SWEENY, Commissioner, &c.

A Sunset Incident in Buffalo.

The Buffalo Express of Monday morning says: "The sunset of Saturday evening, as witnessed from Central Wharf, exhibited a most singular phenomenon. As viewed from that point the great luminary appears to sink into the waters of the lake, and presents a beautiful sight on all ordinary occasions, but at the time referred to, just at the moment when the sun appeared to be floating, as it were, a ball of fire on the surface of the lake, it suddenly assumed a conical shape, out of motion from and the sides had run down, the whole form evidently magnified to twice its usual size. Directly in the centre of this body of fire was plainly visible the form of a ship, as if sailing in and a part of the sun. Many of the business men of Central Wharf, who have for years witnessed many glorious floating and beautiful scenes in the western sky, never before saw the like of this."

Progress in Clearing Away the Rubbish of the Burnt District—Many Brick and Frame Structures in Course of Erection.

From the Chicago Tribune, Nov. 3.

The condition of the burnt district on the South Side, is just now remarkably altered from what it was immediately after the fire. Then a few sickly-eyed wanderers on foot among smoking ruins, and wondered how numerous buildings could have shrunk into so small a space, and read the occasional signs, and looked at the workmen as they were extricating safes. Now those same streets have on both sides walls of brick and piles of stone, while hundreds of teams are loading with broken bricks, crumbling mortar and old iron, and are hurrying off as rapidly as the crowded streets will permit, to return for new loads. There is every where life and bustle and animation. Here carpenters are working, there masons are rushing up buildings. The relics of the old city and the building material of the "new" are laying side by side, and the voices of "men carpers." Thus way for your relics of the great fire," and shouting out for "More brick this way," bland past and future in one absurd confusion.

It is so pleasant to see anything going up in the burnt district that the erection of a frame building is hailed with delight, and the man who runs up a shanty is called a public benefactor. Naturally prone to magnify things as we are, ten houses become a hundred and a two-story brick a palace. While hundreds of building permits have been granted, very few have begun the erection of buildings, and the principal work now and for some time to come will be the clearing away of rubbish and the getting ready to build. Naturally, so little time has to be spent in removing the heaps of brick and stone, that labor-saving machinery is not much in demand, while the numerous steam-engines are puffing away and making much smoke in many places, and it is rather difficult to manage the blasted débris. The business of clearing away is pushing forward with great rapidity, about the only limit to it being the inability to get teams and workmen. There are few streets where work of this kind is not going on, and on some, like Michigan-avenue, north of Lake-street, along where the iron men were, remarkable progress has been made, and next week all owning along there will be ready to begin building. Michigan-avenue is especially noticeable at this moment, since it is the best built up street north of Congress. The Lake Park is now covered with completed and nearly finished frames, and the walls of one or two brick buildings are rapidly going up. There are even sidewalks there; on the west side of the street frames have been run up, and two or three brick buildings are erected or erecting. There is now the commercial centre, so far as the burned-out part of the South Side is concerned.

There are also brick stores going up on Wabash-avenue, near Madison-street; on Wabash-avenue, between Randolph and Washington; on Frank. Rs, near Lake-street; at the corner of Dearborn and Jackson streets; on Dearborn, near Jackson; at the corners of Clark and Adams, Clark and Madison, State and Water, Water and Wabash-avenue, Washington and Market, Market, near Madison, Washington, near Franklin, Wells and Randolph, Washington and Dearborn, and at a few points south of Jackson-street, while next week, when the débris is more removed, the number will be greatly increased. Between these streets frame buildings, most of them of considerable size, have been erected. They meet the eye as one crosses Randolph-street bridge; they line Market street; they see on Franklin, near the river, and whichever way one turns he sees them appearing. There will not, however, be as many of them as at first appeared, for on the North Side all the flame buildings are to be looked for. South of the river they are to be of brick.

Work on the new sand-stone front, on the south-west corner of Washington and Dearborn streets, is progressing rapidly, as well as on the Tremont and First National Bank buildings. Kean's new store on Wabash-ave, Mr. Sherman's new house on Michigan-ave, and the getting ready to build on Madison-street, near the river, is going on with good speed. Work has also begun on the Clark-street Bridge, and it is hoped that it will be done before the expiration of the sixty days required by the contract.

The building erections for the city on the Water Lot Association property appear to be at a stand-still, while POTTER PALMER is hurrying up the State-street Hotel as much as possible. The business of building is thus in a very imperfect and unsettled state at present; but in two weeks more, if the pleasant weather holds, it will be in a far more advanced and cheering condition.

The Relief Work—Amount of Money Contributed, and How It is Being Used.

From the Chicago Tribune.

The actual money subscribed in all parts of the world amounts, so far as is known, to about $2,000,000. Of this sum the Relief Committee has received about one-half, or say $1,000,000. With this million and a half of money they have carried on the work of housing, feeding and clothing from 30,000 to 40,000 people since the 9th of October, aided by the contributions of provisions and goods which have also been made. But for much of this work money, and money only, is indispensable. Lumber, stoves, furniture, crockery, flour, beef, pork, sugar, coffee, tea, blankets, mattresses, coal and various other articles absolutely necessary to the comfort and health of this army of destitute people have to be purchased with the ready cash. Take, for example, the one article of stoves. Without them the people would perish. Two or three hundred dollars will buy enough to warm and cook for less than 2,000 of the sufferers, and 40,000 in want. There was nothing to do but to buy, and buy with ready money, and of the kinds and size of stove wanted there are not enough to be had from the seaboard to the Mississippi. They have all been bought up by the Committee, and are giving away at cost to the fund of more than $10,000. Of mattresses the Committee, foreseeing the coming necessity, ordered them from everywhere in the States and in Canada, where they could learn that such articles were manufactured. Orders went forward to St. Louis, Louisville, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Detroit, Buffalo and Montreal, and they were gathered in by thousands. Of course all these points, in addition to this, the Committee has set to work, every establishment in Chicago, and there 300 to 400 mattresses are turned out by them daily. And yet the demand both for stoves and mattresses cannot be met. But, of course, all this business has to be done with cash in hand. So, too, of houses. Even though 5,000 and 6,000 have been given away—given away absolutely to the recipient, unless he elects to pay for it—and full 5,000 are promised, while barracks have also been put up which shelter 1,000 families, or at least 4,000 persons. In every house and every family room in the barracks is put a stove, a bed, mattresses, and generally more than one bedstead and crockery. These houses and barracks are built with ready money, their furnishing costs ready money, and with the most rigid economy—aided by the fact that the Committee bought up at the price of a penny ago all the lumber they could lay their hands on—the cost of each person's shelter cannot be provided for at less than a million of dollars. Then comes food, of which the staple articles, notwithstanding the generous gifts, have to be purchased, and for which the daily outlay is thousands of dollars. An immense number has still to be fed, though its decreases daily, and the honest get to work for themselves, and the dishonest are cut off as the system for their detection and the judicious distribution of food becomes daily more perfect and accurate. At the outset there was inevitably some waste in the distribution of both food and clothing, for all applicants were relieved, lest none might go hungry or naked, and there was neither the time nor the force at hand to examine into every case. But whatever waste there was, be it observed, was on the side of mercy; and yet, now that this inevitable waste is stopped and the abuses which arose, not on the side of distribution, but on the side of reception of bounty, which we think an important distinction, the daily outlay of money for food, for some sorts of clothing, such as blankets, boots and shoes, and for handling this enormous business, is very great. It is very safe to say—and every man of ordinary reflection, we think, must see that it must be so—that the Relief Committee must be already looking with a good deal of anxiety at the bottom of their pile of $1,000,000, already so large a diminution in thirty days, and asking themselves "What of the night?" when we have as yet got only to the edge of cold weather, and there are five months of Winter yet to come, with its penury, its hunger, its storms, its enforced idleness, and its despair.

And in all this not answer enough to all the cavils and questionings of doubters and grumblers, whether in town or out? The poor are fed and clothed daily—nobody can doubt it, the poor and hungry least of all. They are being housed as rapidly as human industry and activity can bring it about—as every body with eyes can see. These things cannot be done without money; or money there is only about $1,000,000 in hand, and that is where it has gone and is going to. Had it not been for the voluntary contributions of food and clothing in kind, not a dollar of it, by this time, would have been left, and the result would have been the same had not the work fallen into the hands of an organized association, accustomed, though on a smaller scale, to work of this sort, and managed by men who, in character and position can never count for anything, have or stake all that they are and all that they possess for a conscientious and just and wise discharge of the duties devolved upon them.

The Use of the Military—Letter of Gov. Palmer to the State Attorney.

The Chicago Post furnishes us the following copy of a letter from Gov. PALMER to State Attorney REED, of Illinois:

STATE OF ILLINOIS, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 30, 1871.

Charles H. Reed, Esq.:

DEAR SIR: I forward you herewith a copy of an official letter addressed by me to Hon. W. BUSHNELL, Attorney-General, in relation to the circumstances of the death of Gen. THOMAS W. GROSVENOR. The matter has received me as a great amount of anxiety, and after the most mature deliberation I am forced to the conviction that the indictment against TREAT the person who inflicted the wounds upon him, should also include PHILIP H. SHERIDAN, FRANK T. SHERMAN, and the persons who claimed to be the officers of the reputed "Company L, First Regiment of Chicago Volunteers." Some of the reasons that have forced me to this conclusion are stated in my letter to the Attorney-General, and others will occur to you, familiar as you are with the criminal laws and the course of criminal justice. It would be simply dishonorable to you and to the State to prosecute young TREAT alone, to convict him, when you and every one besides, that are supposed to know what the law is, are bound to confess that if he is guilty of a legal offense, so are those who placed him in the position he did himself. The moment you see the State authorities can find a legal excuse for discharging TREAT without trial. No course is open to us but to boldly and squarely stand up to the line of duty. I have written this to you because I can well understand that you may feel a degree of hesitation in advising the Grand Jury to find an indictment against such persons as R. R. MASON, P. H. SHERIDAN, and FRANK SHERMAN, and as the case concerns the State in its political capacity, as much as in other respects, I think it proper that the Governor should take the responsibility of what is done, and, while I have the utmost confidence in you, I do advise the indictment of all concerned.

Respectfully,
(Signed) JOHN M. PALMER.

A Law-Abiding County in New-Jersey.

From the Trenton (N. J.) Gazette, Nov. 1.

It is a little remarkable, that in a county with 80,000 inhabitants, at the last term not a single person should have been convicted of a crime of sufficient grade to be sent to the State Prison, and yet that is the case with Mercer County. At the term just closed this was the case. The lawyers and Judges remark frequently that Mercer County is a wretchedly poor county for criminal business, and some say it is a poor county for litigation of any kind. All this looks well, and is a decidedly strong argument in favor of the good order and correct morals of the country. One thing may be given as a reason for this state of things. The people of Mercer County have not let matters run to loose ends. The law, as a general thing, are enforced, and our people are, as yet, uncorrupted by the vices that surround other cities in the state. It we continue to be watchful that wholesome regulations for the good order of society are not trampled down with impunity, we will continue to have good order in the county.

Doorman Burglar with a Burglar.

From the Philadelphia Ledger, Nov. 7.

About 2 o'clock yesterday morning JAMES LYONS, saloon-keeper at No. 911 Christian-street, was aroused by a noise in his bedroom, and saw a man engaged in searching his pantaloon pockets. At the same moment the burglar saw that Mr. LYONS was awake, and called to him to be still, saying, with an oath, that if he did not, he would shoot him. As if intending to carry his threat into execution a pistol was displayed. Nothing daunted, Mr. LYONS jumped out of bed and grappled with the housebreaker, and a desperate struggle ensued, during which the burglar got one of the thumbs of Mr. LYONS in his mouth and bit it severely; he also repeated his threat to shoot, but could not get an opportunity to discharge his pistol. Upon reaching the stairway they fell down to the landing, and rolled from there to the ground floor, and in the effort of the burglar to escape they reached the street, where the struggle was kept up. While the latter was down on the footway he managed to cock his pistol and discharge it, and the load took effect in one of Mr. LYON'S feet, causing a painful though not a dangerous wound. The desperado then broke away and tried to escape, but was captured by Policeman FERIL, who had been drawn to the neighborhood. Mr. LYONS had previously wrenched the pistol from the fellow's grasp, and tried to shoot him with it. Upon the prisoner being taken to the lockup, he was searched, and on his person was found a watch, a small sum of money, and several skeleton keys. Yesterday he had a hearing at the Central Station, when he gave the name of JOHN BURKE, and said that his residence is in Montrose-street. Among his companions he is known as "Scotty," and he is reported to be an old offender. On the testimony of Mr. and Mrs. LYONS and the officer who captured him, he was committed for further hearing on Wednesday next. The watch which he had in his possession is thought was stolen by him.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

The proposed sale of Boulevard lots today at the Exchange, by order of the Supreme Court, under the direction of a referee, V. K. STEVENSON & SON, auctioneers, is attracting considerable attention from investors in real estate, and should be attended with success. The property is a desirable one, comprising twenty-seven eligibly-located lots, forming the entire block, bounded by the Grand Boulevard, Tenth-avenue, Seventy-sixth-street and Seventy-seventh-street. Intrinsically of value now, prospectively its worth is great, and the prices realized should be such as to exert a beneficial effect upon the market. In addition to the above, MULLER, WILKINS & CO. will today conduct an important stock sale at the Exchange, at which a large variety of choice securities will be offered. Yesterday no business was transacted.

Holders of Five-Twenties

WHO WISH TO INCREASE THEIR INCOME

WITHOUT RISK,

Can obtain from us any of the best descriptions of Railroad Bonds for cash, or in exchange for Government Securities. We have the Bonds of the

Rondout and Oswego Railroad

FOR SALE.

These bonds are in good demand, and we recommend them as safe and most remunerative. The popularity of these Bonds is partly due to the fact that the interest is not paid out of capital, as has to be done by many other first-class enterprises. The Rondout and Oswego Railroad Company are doing a prosperous business. The net earnings of the road already amount to 10 per cent. on all the Bonds to be issued. Fifty miles are now in operation, and the remaining fifty miles will be opened next Summer. Seven miles being almost finished. The road passes through a rich agricultural district heretofore shut out from railroad facilities; it has a large traffic in and with the Western and Canada roads, and will be a large through traffic between the great lakes and deep-water navigation on the Hudson. The assurance of the road to this City allows its true condition to be ascertained, and the bonds have therefore a ready sale. By procuring these Bonds in exchange for five-twenties, the investor gets a Bond equally sound and safe; he also adds to the capital more than 20 per cent., while to his income he adds more than 47½ per cent.

EDWARD HAIGHT & CO.,

CIRCULAR.

TO THE HOLDERS OF THE SEVERAL CLASSES OF BONDS OF THE JACKSON, LANSING AND SAGINAW RAILROAD COMPANY.

Whereas, By an agreement between the Michigan Central and the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw Railroad Companies, the road of the last-named Company is to be leased for ninety-nine years to the former, and by the terms of that agreement, and for the purpose of extending the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw Road northerly, a new and consolidated mortgage is to be executed by the last-named Company on its entire road, to provide both a sufficient fund for the extension of the road as far north as the Straits of Mackinaw, and also for the exchange of all outstanding bonds under previous mortgages of the bonds under the new mortgage of a similar kind; and by the terms of the agreement, as may be done under the laws of Michigan, the Michigan Central Railroad Company may make its own bonds, to be secured by the same mortgage as the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw Road issues the same in lieu of those of the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw, if it should prefer so to do. That whether it does so or not will depend upon the action of those who hold the securities issued by the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw Road; that if the holders of these bonds shall elect to exchange them for the bonds of the Michigan Central, secured by a single first mortgage on the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw Road, it will issue its own bonds for the extension of the road, and also for exchange for the outstanding bonds of the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw Railroad Company, but that it will not do so if the holders of such bonds refuse whether it will or will not issue its own bonds under said mortgage, it is necessary that the holders shall signify, as an early day, their disposition in the matter.

The bonds of the Michigan Central Railroad Company to be issued, will be in sums of one thousand dollars each, and dated Nov. 1, 1871, payable in twenty-five years, interest at eight per cent., free of Government tax, payable semi-annually at its office in Boston.

When exchange is made, it will be at par, interest to be adjusted.

Therefore, all holders of the bonds of the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw Railroad Company desirous of making the exchange as herein provided, will please notify ISAAC LIVERMORE, Treasurer of the Michigan Central Railroad Company, at Boston, on or before the 10th day of December, 1871.

BOSTON, Oct. 30, 1871.

ourselves, amounting to about 18,000. Mr. Tweed in the Eighth District had also a very large vote over his opponent, Harry Genet.

Five Assembly the Tammany candidates have been defeated in the First, Fifth, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, Thirteenth, Eighteenth and Nineteenth Districts, and the following nominated on the Reform ticket are elected:

District.	District.
1. James Healy.	10. Henry H. Haight.
5. David S. Page.	11. Rush C. Hawkins.
7. Horatio N. Twombly.	12. Geo. B. Maclay.
8. Conrad Geib.	16. Samuel J. Tilden.
9. Stephen Pell.	19. Horatio Seymour.

Returns that have not yet been received will doubtless show that the Reform candidates are elected in other districts.

The vote of yesterday fell behind the registry in many election districts. What majorities might have been rolled up for the Reform ticket could the whole vote have been polled is a matter for calculation.

Brooklyn City and Kings County Election Returns.

For some inexplicable reason the returns from the various wards of Brooklyn did not come in last night with anything approaching the customary rapidity; indeed, up to 2 o'clock this morning only six wards, the First, Second, Fourth, Fifth, Eighth and Twenty-second had been heard from in their full returns on the State ticket. These, however, show a decided gain, and while from the scattering returns received from the other Wards, it is clear that the Democrats have secured the Mayor, Controller and County Treasurer, it is also apparent that out of the nine Assemblymen elected, five are Republicans, being a gain of four over last year. The successful candidates are E. D. White, of the Second District; E. D. Berri, of the Fifth; Capt. Peck of the Sixth; George C. Bennett, of the Eighth, and C. B. Morton, of the Seventh. The Republicans also, at the lowest estimate gain three Aldermen. John C. Perry, the Republican candidate for the Senate in the Second District, has a decisive majority over his democratic opponent, James W. Pierce. This district was Democratic last year. A decided gain has also been made in Aldermen, and the Board will, to all appearance, be Republican in its complexion; three being gained in the Eastern and two in the Western districts, the total vote cast in the city is estimated 51,000; being an increase of 5,000 over last year; and the general Republican gain is about 4,000, the Democratic majority being about 6,000 as compared with 10,000 last year. The five county towns show a similar state of things. The following are the figures as far as received up to the time of going to press, but with the exception of the Ward named the vote is estimated by district returns:

Miss James O'Brien Fradulently Denies Having Made Any Compact with Tweed.

The afternoon papers of yesterday published a statement to the effect that Miss JAMES O'BRIEN had entered into a compact with TWEED to scratch the name of STARR off his tickets and put in that of SHANDLEY in consideration of the withdrawal of SWEENY and the certainty of his own victory over BRADLEY. In an interview with Mr. O'BRIEN last night, at Apollo Hall, he stated in the most emphatic manner to our reporter that the story is untrue in every particular. From the opening to the closing of the polls, his adherents worked hard for Gen. STARR, and voted for him, as the majority will show. From first to last the whole report, as published in the afternoon papers of yesterday, was a whole tissue of falsehoods. He further observed, in presence of many gentlemen, among the rest SAMUEL J. TILDEN, that he wished this statement to be given to the public as coming from him in good faith.

What Mr. Tilden Has to Say About the Reform Victory.

The old war-horse of the honest Democracy, Hon. SAMUEL J. TILDEN, was found at Apollo Hall, last evening, surrounded by an immense throng of enthusiastic admirers. Mr. TILDEN was, of course, perfectly overjoyed. He said that he knew, when he appealed to the honest rank and file, that they would not cast their votes for a continuance of corruption. "It is a great, splendid and a noble victory, Sir," said Mr. TILDEN, "and one that was not anticipated, by the most sanguine on the side of honesty, would be so thoroughly. TWEED and his gang are doomed. This is only the commencement, and before many days pass it will be made so hot for the arch rogues that New-York will not hold him. The TIMES deserves the thanks of every man in the City, irrespective of party, for the good work it has done, and its services are deserving of the most cordial thanks. We will now see what can be done to have refunded the enormous amounts stolen from the City and County Treasury." Mr. TILDEN was too full of joy to converse long with any one. Hundreds of people crowded him to shake the old veteran by the hand. After offering Mr. TILDEN hearty congratulations, the reporter withdrew.

Scenes of the Unbounded at Seventy Reversed—The Misery at Work.

In some districts, particularly in the First and Sixth Wards, the voters who desired to obtain ballots from the booths of the Committee of Seventy were unable to find any one in charge yesterday. Early in the day, we are sorry to say, the individuals who had been employed to distribute the Reform tickets sold out to Tammany and deserted their posts. It was from a provision of the probability of such occurrences that the TIMES printed in yesterday morning's issue legal ballots, so that the treachery of the booth men was less effective than they supposed.

What Judge Barrett Thinks of the Victory.

Judge GEORGE C. BARRETT, the candidate elected for the Supreme Court over the traitor LEDWITH, was called upon by a representative of the TIMES, late last night. The young Judge was perfectly jubilant, and went into ecstacies over the great victory for the friends of Municipal Reform. He spoke of the great success as a perfect avalanche of good news. "You see, Sir," said Judge BARRETT, "the people are always right, and this success, thank God, is a severe rebuke to those who have scoffed at the success of a republican form of Government." "The victory, Sir," continued Judge BARRETT, "far exceeds my most sanguine expectations, and I am confident it does also the most ardent hopes of the most enthusiastic member of the noble Committee of Seventy. Some of the tactics now used have been plainly, in our City and plundering the Treasury to such an unlimited extent, will have to follow Mr. GARVEY and Mr. ISAACSOLL, and the 18,000 indictments lying in the District-Attorney's office, which Tammany has so long held over the heads of the scoundrels, will be inquired into, and will doubtless rid New-York of not a few curthroats. The TIMES, Sir, has done a noble work, and it deserves well the honors it will receive."

Rejoicings at the Regular Republican Head-Quarters.

The Fifth-avenue Hotel last evening presented a scene of the busiest character. The hall-way was thronged to its utmost limits by an enthusiastic number of the prominent Republicans of the City. As the returns came in one by one, and were slowly and distinctly read, they were listened to with the greatest possible attention. Such expressions as "Good! Good!" when a favorite candidate polled a big vote in any particular district were heard in numerous instances. The glorious success of GEORGE C. BARRETT over LEDWITH was the subject of much comment, and the election of the former gentleman was received with marked enthusiasm. Outside the doors of the Fifth-avenue Hotel crowds gathered in pursuit of information on the all-absorbing question of the hour. When-ever the name of Gen. STARR was mentioned it was received with applause, as well as the names of all the other successful opponents of the Tammany Ring. One idea seemed to permeate the crowd, and that was a better condition of things was coming about, and that at last the people were pitted against their own money. The successful fight which ELBRIDGE G. BARRETT made against MIKE NORTON, gave genuine and unexampled satisfaction. Surprise of the most agreeable character was depicted on every countenance. There was scarcely one in the crowd who seemed to be prepared for such an unparalleled victory as that which has crowned the determined efforts of an outraged and betrayed people. Taking the matter as a whole, it may be said with truth that there was not a gentleman at the Republican Head-quarters last evening who did not believe that a great victory had been achieved by the people.
